In Bankruptcy—R. M. Wallace.
India Rubber Belting—McMaster & Brice.

We call especial attention to the advertisement of Messrs. John C. Squier & Co. These gentlemen are preparing for an extra large stock of goods.

Messrs. U. G. Desportes & Co. advertise this morning fresh arrivals of American Candies. Give them a call.

Parties interested will do well to read the advertisement of Mr. T. R. Robertson in another column.

Another Victim.

Diphtheria has claimed another victim in the death of Lila, daughter of Mr. R. N. McMaster, aged two years.

Mercantile.

The Merchants are making active preparations for the fall trade. Messrs. Elder, McCarty, and Squier have also gone on to New York. Others are making preparations to leave. Mr. R. S. Desportes, of Ridgeway, returned yesterday.

Coincidence.

At the recent target shooting of the Clinch Rifle Club in Augusta the first and second prizes were won by Capt. R. J. Wilson and Mr. Wm. Dunbar. These gentlemen are partners, and each had lost an arm during the war.

Removals.

We learn from Chester that David Hemphill, Esq., Treasurer, and Mr. Ed. Wiley, postmaster, have been superseded by two colored men. What new devilment are the Governor and President up to? We are also informed that one of the carpet-bagging luminaries of that county, J. C. Reister, is dead.

Whistlers.

Wilmington Editors are annoyed by whistlers. We are annoyed not by whistlers, but by individuals believing themselves to be such. There is a great deal of music in a good, rich whistle, but the noise made by those who try to whistle and can't, is more grating than the notes of the tuneless bull-frog or the filing of a mill saw.

Brown's Hotel.

We call the attention of our country friends and the traveling public to the merits of this well known hotel. Mrs. Brown has had long experience in this line, and is well qualified to give satisfaction. The board is very moderate, only fifty cents a meal or two dollars a day. Gentlemen coming to town during the winter days will find here abundance of cheer after the fatigues of the day and will be well prepared for the cold ride homeward.

Accident.

An accident occurred in town Thursday, that might have been attended with serious consequences. Mr. H. A. Smith was driving a buggy, and as he turned the corner between the jail and the market, the vehicle struck and ran over Willie Owen, a son of Mr. R. T. Owen. Willie's attention was drawn to the cars at the depot and he did not see Mr. Smith as he turned the corner, nor did Mr. Smith observe him. Willie received several bruises on his shoulder, head and leg, but was not seriously injured.

Death of Mrs. Ireddell Jones.

We are deeply pained to hear of the death of Mrs. Ireddell Jones, at Rock Hill, on Saturday last, of that fell disease, diphtheria. Mrs. Jones was the daughter of the late Gov. J. H. Adams. She was of high culture and refinement, and possessed in an eminent degree the noblest Christian virtues. Cut off in the bloom of youth, she leaves a void in the hearts of her friends. To her bereaved husband and two children and her other relatives, we tender our deepest sympathy in their distress.

Premium.

The Augusta branch of the Wheeler and Wilson Sewing Machine Company recently offered premiums for agents selling the greatest number of Machines. At the award Mr. J. B. Elkin of this County received the second premium, a handsome silver cream pot, he having sold 37 machines in two months and one week, while his successful competitor sold 41 in three months. Mr. Elkin is very energetic and is meeting with success.

Mysterious Disappearance in Charlotte.

Private advices from Charlotte State that on Tuesday night a young girl of twelve years of respectable family, mysteriously disappeared.

She was last seen about five o'clock in the afternoon. She did not appear at dark, and after waiting some time, the fears of the family were aroused, and they made search for her. The bell was rung and the police put in search, but with no success. It was surmised that she might have been induced to accompany the garrison that left yesterday. A policeman came as far as Rock Hill to intercept her, but did not see her. Up to last accounts she had not been found.

Noisy Conduct on the Streets.

On Saturday night there was a great deal of noise around Barber's Hall, and vociferous cursing and swearing on the part of several colored men on the street. The street is not the proper place for quarrels and affairs. There are nice sequestered spots all around the edge of town at which little difficulties can be adjusted. It is a curious fact that a combatant always becomes more valiant as he is being carried off, and his combative instincts increase in direct proportion to the distance and the number of friends holding him.

Tailoring.

We call attention to this morning to the advertisement of Landecker & Co. This enterprise supplies a want long felt. Direct communication can be now had with New York, and the swim who has ordered his suit of apparel from this firm, can visit his dulcinea with the full assurance that his integuments have the true "feefth Arvenit" cut and the opera Spring.

Mr. P. H. Danenberg, the courteous and efficient salesman of Landecker & Co., presides over the department, and is fully competent to discharge his duties. He gave great satisfaction to his patrons in the Spring and will do so again. Give him a call.

Attention Police.

A crowd of noisy urchins are in the habit of congregating about the depot on the arrival of the trains, and annoying persons who are there on business. They have also a habit of standing on the track until the engine is within a few feet of them and displaying their agility in jumping out of the way. We call attention to this, not because clumsiness on their part would entail a loss on the town, but because it frightens timid ladies. A policeman should be present on these occasions to enforce order, and prevent any acts of foolhardiness.

Fox Hunting Extraordinary.

Mr. D. R. Feaster is an ardent lover of the old Southern sport of fox hunting. He has a fine pack of hounds, obtained from Pennsylvania. Recently Mr. Feaster, Mr. George Coleman and Mr. Jno. A. P. Coleman, went out on eight successive mornings (excluding Sunday,) and caught fourteen foxes, eleven of them being red. One old veteran red, with a white leg, and auricular appendages measuring ten inches from tip to tip, was gathered to his fathers after a brisk and exciting chase of thirty-five minutes. Of the entire number, but one was a young fox. Who can contest Mr. Feaster's claim for the championship?

The Mails.

We still have to complain of the irregularity of the mails. Several exchanges come very irregular. The route agents lay the blame to the country postmasters. These neglect to take all the packages from the mail bag. A route agent informs us that on one day he found packages returned in this way from three different offices, between Columbia and Charlotte. Occasionally a package adheres to the bag and great care is necessary to prevent accidents.

We saw recently that an honest one-armed mail carrier in Georgia had been arrested for stealing registered letters, and on examination it was found that the missing packages were in the mail bag.

Correction.

Below we insert a letter from J. T. Trapp, making a few corrections in the recent nomination of Rev. D. S. Rice for Senator. We will correct these mistakes, although not made by us. We gave the nomination verbalim et literatim.

"Alston sept list fairfield 1873 to the editor of the tri weekly Dear sir please correct this mistake that I have made in my recommendation that is this please strike out the word objectionable, and insert the word inevitable, strike out the word evitable altogether and insert nothing. That word which you spell's thus equality is wrong it is this equality correct that too, there where it read a man that love's people please insert his and

Heavy Rain Storm.

A heavy rain storm attended with a considerable display of electricity visited Winoosboro and the surrounding country on Sunday night. It commenced just after dark, allowing time for the piously disposed to get safely to church, and raged with unabated fury for several hours. By the time services were over, the streets were flooded, while a sheet of water was descending. After a short consultation the line of march was taken up and ladies, gentlemen and children splashed away. Between the Presbyterian Church and Capt. Withers' corner, ran a stream several yards wide and several inches deep, that had to be forded. Seeing no escape, the ladies, after a few preliminary little screams, plunged boldly in and waded through with a fortitude that would have done honor to any of old Stonewall's "foot cavalry." No serious damage was done by the rain. The streets were badly washed in some places. The gully by the McKinney house caved in, carrying down three trees. The crossings on College green are all down. In the country the damage was considerable. Fencing and crops for a hundred yards wide along Moore's Creek were swept away. The storm this season have all been heavy and attended by electrical phenomena.

Capture and Attempted Escape.

Yesterday morning a colored man named Ira Richards was brought to town by Sam. Gladney and a friend on the charge of horse stealing. Ira had stolen Sam's horse and carried him to sell to Mr. N. C. Robertson. Mr. Robertson recognized the horse, and sent for Sam. Ira was arrested and brought to Winoosboro to Justice Mackey's office. While the captive and the captors were awaiting the coming of the Justice, Ira did not like the turn matters were taking. He panted for the fresh air and green fields that were almost in reach. Summoning his strength, like the brave "Shamus O'Brien," he made one leap, cleared the back door, ran through Dr. Aiken's lot, clearing the fence at a bound, and made for the country. His captors raised an infernal yell as if Pandemonium had broken loose, and slashed in pursuit. The hye and cry followed him closely, one man being on a horse. Ira made capital time, but could not cope with horse flesh and a horse pistol that pointed its ugly mouth at him. He caved in, gracefully, and was brought back. Justice Mackey turned him over to Sheriff Duval and he is now in durance vile.

The Cotton Crop Damaged.

The Wilmington, N.C., Journal of the 4th inst., says: "A friend, who has just returned from South Carolina, informs us that the cotton prospects in Marion, Williamsburg, Darlington and Sumter Counties are really very discouraging. The rust and the worm have both been at work, and the farmers are now engaged in picking out the open cotton as fast as possible. The yield will prove very different from that promised a few weeks ago."

A Brutal and Bloody Father.

Charles Pearson, a colored man, living on the plantation of Mr. Jas. Moriwether, was lodged in our jail on Wednesday of last week, charged with the murder of his own child—a little girl about 3 years old—by whipping. The child died on the 22nd ult., from the effect, it is said, of an unmerciful whipping inflicted by the father a few days before. —Edgefield Advertiser.

There is a deadly weapon used in Mexico and California called the sand-clue, made of aneel skin filled with sand. A person when struck with this weapon seldom recovers, and it never leaves any marks. For several years the police of California were puzzled to account for some mysterious deaths. After a while they captured a burglar who had in his possession one of these formidable weapons.
